

BAYH ANNOUNCES 5 RESERVOIR PLANS

Federal share $21.9 million for Big Walnut Creek Reservoir project

FRENCH LICK—Indiana Senator Birch Bayh, a member of the powerful Senate Public Works Committee, disclosed here today government plans to construct five new reservoirs in the Wabash Valley at a total cost of more than $150-million.

Bayh, speaking at a luncheon of the Wabash Valley Association, said the reservoirs and a new flood control project at Marion, Ind., have been recommended by the Army Corps of Engineers and likely would be included in an Omnibus Public Works Authorization Bill this year. It would be the first public works authorization bill enacted by Congress since 1965, he said.

Total cost of the reservoirs and the flood control project would be $152,660,000, of which the net federal share would be $87,416,000. Bayh said the projects would yield $13 million a year in benefits from flood protection, recreation, water supply and water quality control.

The projects are:

—The Big Blue Reservoir on the Big Blue River near the Hancock-Shelby county line. Federal share of the construction would be $22.6 million of a total cost of $29.2 million.

—The Downeyville Reservoir on Flatrock Creek near the Decatur-Rush county line. Federal share would be $17.5 million of a total construction cost of $33.7 million.

—The Big Walnut Reservoir on Big Walnut Creek in Putnam

County. Federal share would be $21.9 million of a total construction cost of $36.6 million.

—The Marion flood control project. Federal share would be $12,400,000 of a total construction cost of $15,600,000.

—The Louisville Reservoir (in Illinois) on the Little Wabash River. Federal share would be $20.5 million of a total construction cost of $29 million.

—The Helm Reservoir (in Illinois) on Skillet Fork. Federal share would be $13.5 million of a total construction cost of $22.6 million.

Bayh said controversy has been generated over the Big Walnut Reservoir because it is believed that as presently planned, the reservoir would inundate areas of significant ecological value. Bayh said he believes this project could be designed in such a way so that "with just a relatively few more dollars, we can reasonably satisfy both sides in the argument."

In the face of Administration threats to cut back public works spending or to try to delay a new authorization bill this year, Bayh said he will fight such efforts.

"When we talk about cutting government spending, let us look at priorities."

Which is more important, keeping our land and homes and people free from devastation in floods in the Wabash River basin, or squandering millions of dollars on military aid to foreign countries?

"Which is more important, seeing that we have enough water to drink here on earth, or putting everything else aside so that we can get a man to the moon?"

"Which is more important, providing conservation and recreation for Americans, or allowing a handful of bureaucrats to pump tax dollars into the economic aid program to Vietnam with so little supervision that on one commodity alone—sheep tsestee—we were wasting $15 million a year until I put a stop to it?" he concluded.

Unusual invitation is extended for luncheon

The Indiana Society of Washington has issued a most unusual invitation for the Society's Annual Awards Luncheon known as the "Hoo's Hoo of Hoosier Women" March 16 at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington.

The invitation features the political symbols of an elephant and a donkey suspiciously eyeing each other yet carrying the message "Let's get together," which illustrates the non-partisan character of the Society.

This year the Hoo's Hoo award will be given three distinguished Hoosiers, Mrs. Martha Hartke, wife of Indiana's Senior Senator Vance Hartke of Evansville; Mrs. Marvella Bayh, wife of the Junior Senator Birch Bayh of Terre Haute; and Mrs. Esther Bray, wife of Representative William Bray of Martinsville.

While all three of the recipient's husbands are politically active in Indiana the Hoo's Hoo award is given for the accomplishments of each of the women in their own right.

Martha Hartke has received national recognition for her work in teaching retarded children as well as for her many accomplishments in the fields of human betterment throughout the world.

Marvella Bayh has worked energetically in the Indiana Eastern Seal Campaigns and has strongly supported America's Beautification Program, working closely with Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, wife of the President of the United States.

Esther Bray has continued to teach as a member of the faculty of Indiana University School of Business and at the same time given guidance and leadership as Educational Director for Indiana Girls National which indoctrinates young girls in the complex problems of government.

Another feature of this luncheon will be the presentation of one of Indiana's most gifted textile artists, Miss Jo Ann Huntsman of Morgantown and Indianapolis, who is now living in New York City and is an executive with Jack Lemor Inc., one of the outstanding textile houses of the world. Miss Huntsman will show many of her fabrics as well as model selections from her own wardrobe made from her own designs by Clara Ruoff at her shop in Brown County.

Another "fashion attraction" will be the modeling of favorite dresses by the wives of the Indiana Congressional delegation, including Mrs. Ross Adair of Ft. Wayne, Mrs. Lee Hamilton of Columbus, Mrs. William Bray, Martinsville, Mrs. John Myer of Covington, Mrs. Roger Zion of Evansville, and even the bachelor Congressman Ray Madden of Gary will send attractive Virginia Turner of his office to model the dress he likes most.

Accident Is Fatal To One Teen-Ager

One Greencastle teen-ager was fatally injured and two others hurt in a traffic accident at the intersection of the Belle Union Road and U.S. 40, east of Mt. Meridian, at 9:35 Monday night.

William F. Walbring, 18, 9 Highland, died of a fractured skull at the Putnam County Hospital at 10:17 p.m.

Treated and then released at the hospital were:

Ronnie L. Gibbs, 16, 88 South Street, lacerations on lower lip and shoulder bruises.

State police at the Putnamville Post reported that young Walbring was driving north on the Belle Union Road and failed to stop for U.S. 40.

The car skidded on loose gravel and was hit broadside by an eastbound tractor-trailer.

The semi was driven by Dale M. Lute, 51, Columbus, Ohio.

Troopers Gary Hood and Randy Green conducted an investigation.

This was the second fatal accident at this intersection since last Thursday morning when Mrs. Nancy Helen Buis, 27, rural Fillmore, was killed.

She was also going north on the Belle Union Road and her auto was hit on 40 when she failed to see an approaching tractor-trailer.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Whitaker Funeral Home.

Cured cancer assembly to convene

Representatives from the Putnam County Unit of the American Cancer Society will join with 400 volunteers from all parts of Indiana when the First Indiana Cured Cancer Assembly convenes Sunday, March 17, in Indianapolis to kick off the 1968 Cancer Crusade.

Mrs. Herbert Flint of 27 Sunset Dr., Greencastle, will be among the 92 men, women and children cured of cancer who are meeting to demonstrate that "most cancers when detected and treated early" are curable.

Bill Huxford, 1968 Cancer Crusade Chairman, will lead the group of eight volunteers from Putnam County. They are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Huxford, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stanley, Mrs. John Pershing, and Mary Ryan.

Shirley Conway, star of "The Nurses" TV show, will be the featured speaker at the session which is to be held in the Indianapolis Athletic Club. Miss Conway will personally welcome the representative from Putnam County.

The 1968 Cancer Crusade gets underway throughout Indiana in April. Funds are urgently needed to support the Society's program of research, education and service to cancer patients.

Dean Rusk urges passage of LBJ's foreign aid plan

WASHINGTON UPI — Secretary of State Dean Rusk Monday urged Congress to approve President Johnson's entire foreign aid program of $2.9 billion despite mounting costs of the Vietnam War.

The secretary argued against any aid cut in a prepared statement at the opening of testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

With Rusk's appearance the committee was moving toward a possibly explosive debate later over the wisdom of Johnson's Southeast Asia policy.

The secretary had refused for months to testify in open session about Vietnam policy before the critical committee headed by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but appeared for the official purpose of urging adoption of the foreign aid program.

However, he and committee members, among whom are some of the sharpest critics of the Vietnam War, were both aware that his appearance, carried nationally on live television and radio, would quickly erupt into a full scale argument over all facets of administration policy.

Fulbright and other members of Congress were disturbed by reports that Gen. William C. Westmoreland is asking for an additional 206,000 troops during the next year to add to the 525,000 already authorized for Vietnam.

In his opening statement, urging approval of the aid request, Rusk said the underdeveloped nation of the world have no hope of success in their fight against "hopelessness and poverty" unless the United States and other wealthy nations help them.

Rusk said the President's aid program for the fiscal year beginning July 1 involves spending no more than $170 million of the money outside the United States, compared with a $980 million drain on dollar funds in the 1961 program.

He said the United States now ranks only fifth among the industrialized nations of the non-Communist world in the proportion of its gross national product used for official aid. The program for next year represents two thirds of one per cent of the gross national product, he said.

Among the programs which Rusk specifically mentioned as important were:

—Authorization for the United States to contribute $200 million over a four year period for the Asian Development Bank.

—Proposals to devote nearly $800 million next year to "direct programs in agriculture," with special emphasis on providing fertilizers, seeds and other items to increase production.

The secretary contended that the foreign assistance program administered by the Agency for International Development (AID) "is efficiently and soundly managed."

He said AID, which has been the target of corruption charges in some areas, "deals promptly with the relatively few instances in which mistakes and shortcomings occur."

The Foreign Relations Committee set aside procedural rules in order to allow full questioning of Rusk by members.

Copper strike end in sight

WASHINGTON UPI—The end may be in sight for the 24-day nationwide copper strike, informed sources said today.

The 26 unions involved in recently renewed talks with the big four copper companies were reported prepared to abandon their key demand—company-wide contracts with each firm.

The unions scheduled a meeting for later today and were said to be leaning toward accepting new wage offers by management.

Tentative agreement was reported reached between one group of union negotiators with Phelps Dodge Corp., while another group was said to have agreed tentatively to a settlement with Kennecott Copper Corp.

The other two companies involved are Anaconda and American Smelting and Refining Co.

The strike involved about 60,000 workers. Until President Johnson called negotiators to the White House last week to resume talks, there had been no movement toward a settlement since the walkout began last July.

Philip E. Balay, 21, Martinsville, charged with theft of auto wheels and tires was fined $200 and costs. His driver's license was revoked for one year and he was prohibited from driving a motor vehicle during this period. He was also ordered to turn in his current license plates.

Allan P. Stronstad, 30, city, charged with theft by deception was ordered held for a pre-sentence investigation and an FBI investigation.

Robert W. Wraley, 38, Indianapolis, was fined $100 and costs for disturbing the peace.

Robert Wilkins, 45, Indianapolis, was fined $200 and costs for uttering a forged instrument.

Money in the amount of $342.28 was confiscated by the court and an Indiana State Prison sentence of 24 years was suspended under strict conditions.

New record is big hit in Britain

LONDON UPI — A new long-playing phonograph record today is sweeping the board rooms of Britain's main commercial companies. Its name—"The 1967 Companies Act."

The claim is that the record put out by charters accountant Arthur Rice, enables businessmen to get a reasonable grasp of what the new act is in 45 minutes.

The alternative to listening to the disc is reading through 136 pages of difficult and sometimes confusing legal language.

Banking experts say next 48 hours will tell the story

BASEL, Switzerland UPI — Banking experts said today they expect the next 48 hours to determine whether Western Europe's financiers succeeded in stopping the gold rush attack on the U.S. dollar.

America's six gold pool partners reaffirmed Sunday their determination with the United States to maintain the price of gold at $35 an ounce. The action aimed at ending speculation in gold on the money markets that has exerted pressure on the dollar and the devaluated British pound.

If the speculators had succeeded in pushing up the price of gold on the money market, this would have cut the value of the dollar in foreign markets because $35 would buy less than one ounce of gold. Therefore, it would have taken more dollars to buy the same amount of gold.

The money markets were reopening today after the weekend. The experts waited to see what effect the financiers' action would have on speculation.

The gold pool, to which the United States contributes more than 50 per cent, maintains the stability of gold at $35 an ounce on the market. If the price rises, the pool buys. If the price drops, the pool sells. Either way the pool loses money on the transaction and the United States loses the most. So far this year the speculation has cost the United States a half billion dollars.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve board, asked the other gold pool bankers to renew the statement they made in Frankfurt, Germany, last November to continue selling gold at $35 an ounce.

In effect, the bankers told the gold speculators there is no cause to doubt the stability of the American dollar. The Basel Declaration further signifies the bankers' confidence that the United States and Britain are improving their balance of payments deficits.

Though the declaration is only a stopgap aimed at halting the speculation, it was regarded as a victory for Martin. It was understood that the Federal Reserve chairman had to use some persuasive talk to obtain the European support despite the urgent need for the central banks to speak out to break the gold drain.

Khe Sanh is battle of 'titanic' firepower

DA NANG, Vietnam UPI—Marine Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman today said the battle for surrounded Khe Sanh is a "titanic firepower struggle" which he is convinced the Allies can win.

The Marine commander in Vietnam put his feelings to newsmen in one sentence: "I don't think the enemy can take Khe Sanh. I don't think the enemy can take Khe Sanh. I think we can hold it."

About 6,000 Marines plus some South Vietnamese rangers man the ringed fort which forms the western anchor of the allied anti-invasion line facing up to 70,000 North Vietnamese in a position troops poised on the border.

Cushman, speaking emphatically, said he had recommended that Khe Sanh be held and that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, agreed with him.

"Khe Sanh is still getting about 150 incoming rounds a day and I am not fooling myself that he (the enemy) has the capability of stepping it up if it suits his purpose. The Communists don't invite destruction from the air by revealing too many of their gun positions."

"They are still capable of conducting an attack against Khe Sanh. However the price would be very high indeed. The enemy is digging trenches and using other tricks of the trade which battle of Dien Bien Phu, he added.

Cushman told the news conference there was a possibility the Reds might try something at Khe Sanh on March 13, the 14th anniversary of the start of the battle of Dien Bien Phu.

He noted that the Communists occasionally commemorate such anniversaries, but that he had no indication whether they would on this one, the anniversary of France's landmark defeat in Indo-China.

The Marine general said troops in the I Corps (South Vietnam's northern provinces) had been on the offensive since the Tet attack began and had been killing an average of 250 Communists a day.

"He has been avoiding us. But we have been able to find him. . . . I would say in round figures we have killed 20,000 in the past few weeks, which is more than we killed all last year."

1967 Was A Big Year For Archeologists

ROME UPI — Italian archeologists were hard at work in the Mediterranean area during 1967. It was a year in which they made important discoveries in five foreign lands and on two of their own islands.

In a summary of work carried out during the year under its direction, Italy's National Council for Research singled out what it called "significant discoveries" in Syria, Egypt, the Sudan, Tunisia, Malta, Sicily and Sardinia.

Excavators at Tell Mardik in Syria brought to light the ancient city's wall, which dates back to the third century before Christ. Digging in Tell Mardik's ancient royal palace, the archeologists also uncovered a large courtyard and several rooms, as well as various sculptures in stone, and terra cotta statues.

At Antioch in Egypt excavations were carried out around the temple of Ramses II, who reigned from 1292 to 1225 B.C. In addition to successfully dating the ruins, Italian teams discovered fragments of large wine jars that the Greeks brought to Egypt centuries later.

The remains of an early church were discovered at Sonqi Tino in the Sudan. Built during the Nubian domination of the area, it was made of brick. On its walls were several well preserved frescoes.

Excavating on Tunisia's Cape Bon coast, the Italians found remains of the ancient Roman cities of Mraissa and Dagla. They also found a Carthaginian fortress at Ras Fortas.

Digging on Malta took place at Tas Silg and St. Paul Milqi and on the island of Gozo off Malta. At Tas Silg the excavators found an early Christian Basilica and sanctuary and at St. Paul Milqi the frescoed wall of a spacious villa. On Gozo they completed unearthing a Carthaginian sanctuary.

At Mozia, an early Carthaginian island settlement off Trapani in Sicily, around 70 stele, inscribed stones and pillars, were found. The writings and drawings on them were Punic.

The ruins of a huge Roman temple were found at Antas on the island of Sardinia. Inscriptions proved it was dedicated to the Sardinian god Sarus Pater and that this god was identified with the Carthaginian god Sid. The Carthaginians ruled Sardinia until the Second Punic War.

Hints from Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

DEAR HELOISE:
Just what can a woman do outside of painting her kitchen window sill every three months where she sets those little odds and ends used daily around the house?

THE FUNNY THING ABOUT THIS IS that our kitchen is painted only once every three years and all but the window sill still looks beautiful.

DEAR MOTHER:
Many people have recommended using wax.

However, painters write in that wax cannot be painted over because the paint won't stick until the wax has been removed with a solvent.

The easiest answer I have is to take some plastic wrap, cut it to fit the window sill and spread it on with your hands. Then wring out a warm sponge that has been dipped in hot water and smooth away.

The plastic will keep water and rusty cans from ruining the paint on your sill and will NOT show.

I also find this wonderful under potted plants, especially if the pots are the metal type that often rust.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:
When I was making a double-knit sweater, the two threads kept twisting around each other. I would hold up the knitted garment to let the thread unwind.

My husband suggested that I place the balls of yarn on a Lazy Susan and turn the yarn instead. This is so much more satisfactory and much easier to do.

MRS. GLENN GRIMM

Now who's dizzy? Let's let it be "Lazy Susan" and not us. It works, gals. And do we love Mrs. Grimm? I'll say we do.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:
When making egg salad, I use my pastry blender for chopping those hard-boiled eggs. The same blender also slices eggs nicely for salad toppings in case one doesn't have an egg slicer.

MRS. A. AVRAMAUT

DEAR HELOISE:
I use pipe cleaners to make "hangers" for my little girl's tiny doll clothes. They are so easy to shape and the doll clothes do not slip off at all.

MARGIE ANN

DEAR HELOISE:
When your sponge mop wax applicator gets old and tough, try using a soft cloth around the sponge, secure it to the handle with rubber bands and wax away!

I think mine works even better than the sponge did when it was new.

MAEVE
Gal, a piece of an old nylon stocking works wonderfully, too. Just cut a "tube" from the center.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:
I save aluminum pans that sweet rolls come in and find them great when broiling our steaks and chops.

They can be cleaned easily, and if you don't happen to feel like cleaning them, just throw them out.

POLL YKENNEDY

DEAR HELOISE:
When I have to go downtown on rainy days to pick up a few odds and ends, I take a plastic bag with me in my coat pocket. I put it over the package and the items inside stay nice and dry on my way home.

JOANNE MANDANO

You're right. What makes me mad is that I didn't think of it myself.

Attendance Of Church Drops

NEW YORK UPI — Average attendance in the Episcopal Church is steadily decreasing, especially in big city areas, according to a recent report of the denomination's General Division of Research and Field Study.

The report, carried in The Episcopalian, said baptized membership of the Church increased 2.6 per cent in the years 1963-66. Average attendance at Sunday services in the Church's eight provinces in those years dropped from 48.6 per cent of the baptized membership in 1963 to 44.9 per cent in 1966.

The report said the trend may be partially explained by the decreasing birth rate in the United States since 1957.

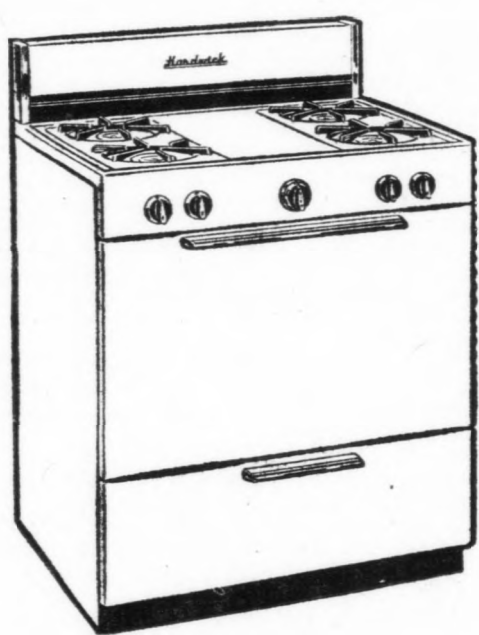

Growing City Near Phoenix

LITCHFIELD PARK, Ariz. UPI — The population of this new city rising near Phoenix climbed over 50 per cent in 1967, as the head count rose from 540 to 850. Projected population is between 75,000 and 100,000 when the city is completed in 20 years.

The city planners hope to build 350 new homes in 1968, and see the population more than double as homebuilding hits full stride.

State finals big-city affair 2nd straight year

INDIANAPOLIS UPI—The final lap for the Indiana high school basketball crown was a big-city affair today for the second year in a row and the only real surprise was the ease that carried the two "have nots"—Indianaapolis Shortridge and Gary Roosevelt—into the grand finale.

Saturday's semi-state tourney results came up with a colorful and power-packed foursome to battle it out this weekend for the vacant title that was without clear-cut favorite after 484 games had been played.

It will be Roosevelt against fifth-ranked Vincennes and No. 9 Shortridge against Marion at Hinkle Fieldhouse here Saturday afternoon, with the winners shooting the works for the crown that night.

Chances for a first-time winner of the March madness were 50-50, with Shortridge and Roosevelt seeking that honor. Vincennes, the UPI state title choice, won in 1923, and Marion three years later.

Shortridge routed Richmond, 81-58, to gain the four-team finals for the first time since 1933. Vincennes outlasted No. 7 Evansville Reitz in a Southern thriller, 71-70, to get this far for the first time since 1925.

Marion, No. 14 in the final UPI coaches' board ratings, defeated No. 6 Michigan City, 72-67, for its first "Fieldhouse Four" appearance in 18 years and 12th ranked Roosevelt belted little North Miami with a record-91-30 verdict for its first finals berth since 1965.

Towering Roosevelt, now 20-5 for the season, knocked off giant-killer Attica, 82-69, at Purdue before chasing North Miami by the largest winning margin ever—61 points—in the "Sweet Sixteen." The old record was 43 points, New Albany over Switz City 13 years ago.

North Miami upset Greencastle, 73-66, to qualify against Roosevelt.

Shortridge ended the tourney hopes of fourth-ranked Columbus, 88-77, while Richmond poured it on Jac-Cen-Del, the only other "little" entry left, 68-49, at Hinkle.

Vincennes also had its hands full with Jeffersonville in the afternoon round at Evansville before winning, 77-69, while Reitz overpowered Bloomington, 89-69. The same was true for Michigan City, which shook Kokomo in the final minutes for a 90-79 win to qualify against Marion, 62-51 winner over host Fort Wayne Catholic.

Balanced Shortridge had the most prolific shooter in the semi-state in lanky Dave Holt with 43 points, one more than teammate Oscar Evans and Jerry Memering of Vincennes. Next was Grant Peyton of Michigan City with 40 markers.

At this stage last year, Bob Ford of title-bound Evansville had 66 points and finished with a record 128 for th final four games—a mark that appears to be safe this trip.

All four 1967 finalists were

"Big 10" members, making this year's show somewhat more unpredictable. That's the way it was from the start and it became even more so when Attica shot down Lafayette, the team regarded as North's most likely successor, in the regionals.

In at least two respects, the state finals' pairings are perfect: The two ex-champs cannot meet until the title match and neither can the two teams aspiring to their first crown.

Should Shortridge or Roosevelt succeed, it would be the fourth consecutive year for a brand-new winner to crash through.

Coaches miss conference

INDIANAPOLIS UPI — Only two of the four coaches whose teams remain in the running for the Indiana high school basketball championship appeared at the IHSAA offices Monday for the traditional conference.

Veteran newsmen said they could not recall an instance where only half the coaches showed up.

Coaches Jack Colescott of Marion and Gunner Wyman of Vincennes were there, but Gary Roosevelt was represented by athletic director Leonard Douglas and Indianapolis Shortridge by athletic director Bob Nipper.

But the failure of Shortridge coach George Theofanis and Roosevelt coach Bo Mallard to attend did not prevent the schools from grabbing up their share of the tickets for the four-team, three-game title round next Saturday in Hinkle Field house at Butler University.

Each school received 1,000 tickets plus 25 for winning the regional. The remaining 10,000-odd tickets will be distributed among the 484 other IHSAA member schools which participated in the tourney.

Colescott, Wyman and Douglas also worked out a practice schedule aimed at permitting three of the final four to work-out on the Hinkle floor to familiarize the players with the championship court.

Shortridge gets no practice at Hinkle this week because that was the site of both the regional and semi-state which the Blue Devils won.

Marion will practice at 3 p.m. Thursday, Roosevelt at 2 p.m. Friday, and Vincennes at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Four DPU students receive awards

Two seniors and two juniors last night were named post-season award winners at DePauw University's annual winter sports banquet in the Student Union.

Tom McGurk, a senior from Covington, Ind., and Dan O'Meara, another senior from Cedar Rapids, Ia., were named winners of Most Competitive Basketball Player and MVP in swimming respectively.

McGurk, fourth leading scorer in the ICC and the team's 1967-68 captain, won the Most Competitive Player award for an unprecedented third consecutive time. O'Meara was an easy choice for his honor since he paced the current squad in scoring with 54 1/2 points and placed well in the ICC meet as the Tigers' ace sprint swimmer. His name is on two DePauw school records.

Sixty-five junior Tom McCormick pulled down two basketball records. He was voted MVP by his teammates and also picked as winner of the same honor by the Indianapolis Area Alumni Club. McCormick led DePauw's NCAA entry in scoring with a 19.5 average and finished second among ICC scorers.

The sole man to break Indiana State's monopoly in ICC wrestling was named DePauw's MVP in wrestling for 1967-68. He is 130-pound ICC champion Tom Croxton from West Lafayette.

The only non-State grappler to win an ICC crown, Croxton put together an 8-3 dual meet record this season under new head coach Lee Schoenfeld.

These four men, plus 55 other athletes, including Dick Fletcher of Greencastle, were awarded varsity and freshman numerals and letters at the banquet. Fletcher, son of Prof. and Mrs. Robert Fletcher, 620 Highwood, earned a varsity wrestling award.

23 cars entered at 500

INDIANAPOLIS — New cars for two veteran drivers from Texas — A. J. Foyt, Jr., and Lloyd Ruby — and three other entries increased the official list to 23 today for the 52nd annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

Foyt, a five-time winner of the USAC national driving championship, will be seeking an unprecedented fourth Indianapolis victory in one of two Sheraton-Thompson Specials entered by Ansted-Thompson Racing, Inc., of Indianapolis. It will be his sixth straight "500" under Sheraton-Thompson sponsorship and his chief mechanic will be his father, A. J. Foyt, Sr.

Ford racing engines will be used in both of the Foyt cars, but additional tests are planned before making a choice between the "unblown" and turbocharged varieties for his 11th "Indy" appearance.

Ruby, who has participated in eight previous Indianapolis races with turbocharged Offenhauser engines, entered by the Gene White Company of Indianapolis with Dave Laycock as crew chief.

Both of the White cars still are available for sponsorship, as is the fifth entry today, which was received from James H. Greer of Houston, Tex. No driver has been named for the Greer car, which will be powered by a 255-inch Ford engine, but A. J. Foyt, Sr., will be the chief mechanic on it also.

Foyt, who set a new "500" record of 151.207 miles an hour to lead the field home last year, also won here in 1961 and 1964. He has scored more USAC championship victories than any other driver, 37; and he won the

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SEEKING a divorce after thirty years of so-called wedded bliss, Mrs. Feinstein testified under oath, "My husband even curses me in his sleep." Interrupted the irate Mr. Feinstein, "Your Honor, that's a lie! I'm not asleep."

The one-and-only W. C. Fields used to explain that he acquired his jarring nasal drawl when he accompanied his father selling slightly spoiled fruits and vegetables to reluctant Philadelphia housewives aboard a rickety grocery wagon pulled by a decrepit nag named White Swan. While his father was short-changing occasional buyers, young Fields would chant in a sing-song snarl a list of vegetables that never were in stock. When housewives attempted to purchase these goodies, Papa Fields would explain that his son was an unfortunate half-wit—then clout him over the ear when they were out of sight.

One of Fields' more outrageous acts was to spike the morning glass of milk of his hated rival, six-year-old Baby Le Roy, with straight gin. Then when the poor kid fell sound asleep in the middle of a scene, Fields exulted, "As I always have proclaimed, the kid's no trouper."

Henny Youngman has found out what cannibal housewives do with their leftovers. They make chap suey.

Opening lead—king of hearts.

This hand occurred in a team of four championship. The deal is notable chiefly because the bidding and play were identical at the two tables and because both declarers made four spades even though they had a loser in each suit.

West led the king of hearts, which held, and continued with a heart. Declarer won with the ace and cashed the A-K of spades, learning that West had a trump trick.

South then led a diamond, won by East with the ace, and East returned the queen of clubs. Declarer took it in dummy with the ace and cashed two high diamonds. He then played a club to his king.

West could have ruffed, of course, but he realized that if he did he would have to return a heart, affording South the opportunity to dispose of his club loser as the heart was ruffed in dummy.

West knew from the previous plays that South had started with five spades, two hearts, three diamonds, two clubs, plus one unknown card. If declarer's remaining card was a heart or a diamond the contract was unbeatable, so West had to hope that declarer's thirteen-card was a club loser. He therefore did not ruff the club king, but discarded a heart.

However, all that West accomplished was a postponement of the inevitable. South put West on lead with a trump, and West had to concede the contract by yielding a ruff and discard.

It is interesting to note that both declarers ducked the opening heart lead. This showed a very early appreciation of a possible endplay if it turned out that a trump trick had to be lost.

Had they won the first heart lead and followed the course of play described, West would have been able to defeat the contract by leading a low heart after ruffing the king of clubs, allowing his partner to win with the eight and cash the setting club trick.
